Technical Status:

COHO's stock price is going through a stagnant stage where its share price has been fluctuating within a narrow channel for the last couple of months, which clearly shows that investors are either uncertain of the stocks' direction or they might be going through an informational gap regarding fundamental news.

As a result, an opportunity for speculators has opened up when almost all technical indicators depict an imminent upward shift in the stock's price. All of the Relative Strength Index (RSI), the Money Flow Index (MFI) and the Stochastic Oscillator (SO) began to give positive signals of near future changes in the stock price trend.

From a fundamental perspective, COHO holds a good Book Value per Share (BVPS) of JD1.42/share, which gets the P/BV Multiple, at the current price of JD1.99, to stand at a mere 1.4x. In addition, having calculated COHO's estimated Earnings per Share (EPS) as 0.22JD/share, the stock is now trading at a forward P/E of only 9x its future earnings. That being said, COHO's shares are considered to be both fundamentally undervalued and technically eligible.
